Dept. of Education, Office for Civil Rights : Office of Educational Research and Improvement, Educational Resources Information Center, 2000 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)51784865 Subject: Educational tests and measurements -- Handbooks, manuals, etc. Excerpt: . . . The guide also includes a collection of resources related to the test measurement and nondiscrimination principles discussed in the guide - all in an effort to help policy-makers and educators ensure that decisions that have high-stakes consequences for students are made accurately and fairly. Recently, education stakeholders at all levels have approached OCR requesting advice and technical assistance in a variety of test-use contexts, particularly as states and districts use tests as part of their standards-based reforms. Also, OCR is increasingly addressing testing issues in a broader and more extensive array of complaints of discrimination that have been filed. These developments confirm the need to provide a useful resource that captures legal and test measurement principles and resources to assist educators and policy-makers. As used in this resource guide, high-stakes decisions in this guide refer to stakes decisions refer to decisions decisions with important consequences for with important consequences for individual students, such as placement in individual students. Education special programs, promotion, graduation, and entities, including state agencies, local admissions decisions. education agencies, and individual education institutions, make a variety of decisions affecting individual students during the course of their academic careers, beginning in elementary school and extending through the post-secondary school years. Examples of high-stakes decisions affecting students include: student placement in gifted and talented programs or in programs serving students with limited-English proficiency; determinations of disability and eligibility t. . .
