Not illustrated. 1871 Excerpt: .situated at Comely Bank, forms a conspicuous object in the view from the Dean Bridge, from which it is easily accessible. This building is erected in conformity with the endowment of the late Sir William Fettes, a merchant in Edinburgh, as a college for the education of youth. The structure, which was designed by David Bryce, R.S.A., is covered with the finest work. The approach is by a straight and wide drive nearly a quarter of a mile long, from the entrance at Comely Bank. Coming nearer, the building shows great wealth of details, not so varied as Looking over the eastern wall there may be seen below St. Bernard s Mineral Well, which, however, must not be supposed to have any connection with the adjoining river. The water is an excellent sulphureous liquid, possessing the usual medicinal qualities. The late Lord Gardenstone was the first to appreciate the properties of the spring, and erected the present classical temple, enclosing a statue of Hygeia. Attendance is given at the well every morning from 6 A.m. till dusk; charge, 1d. per visit. Heriot s Hospital, where there are no two windows exactly alike, nor so unique in form as that building, but probably excelling all modern buildings here in the variety and elegance of its ornamentation. A finely carved stone rail encloses the terrace, around which are shrubberies, cricket-grounds, skating ponds, and other sources of enjoyment. On the ground-floor the wings are connected with the centre by an...
