OCLC Number: (OCoLC)55112790 Subject: Indians of North America -- Legal status, laws, etc. Excerpt: . . . and carry out the various Federal programs, services and functions in a manner that best works for the tribes and their members. It enables participating tribes to serve their members according to their unique political, social, economic and cultural circumstances, with maximum efficiency and effectiveness. Tribes are the governments for their Indian members. Self- Governance thus represents what I believe is a Republican philosophical precept holding that local government best represents and serves the people. The purpose of todays hearing is to hear from several tribes that have been involved in Self-Governance since it was formalized in the late 1980s. The Committee is interesting in a status check on the Self-Governance experiment. How successful has it been in serving their members and managing their assets Are there problems, and how can Congress address them on a government-to-government basis with the tribes What does the future hold for Self-Governance This is a fairly open-ended hearing, and I think our witnesses are eager to tell the story of their experiences. The...
